Line (5) (10)	Last weekend I watched a movie that was set in the 1950s. It was a great movie that included a scene in which a doctor visited a patient in the patient’s bedroom at home. After examining the young patient’s mouth and throat with a wooden tongue depressor—say “Ah”—the doctor stood and delivered his only other line in the movie, “Jonny’s tonsils need to come out, Mrs. Wilson.” Such at-home medical visits are	(15) (20)	commonly referred to as “house calls.” If you are unfamiliar with this term, do not be concerned. There is a good reason for your lack of familiarity. House calls are largely a thing of the past. In fact, it’s been decades since the practice was common. People like you and me are used to traveling to the doctor’s office whenever the need for a medical consult arises.

1. The phrase “was set” in line 2 means
 - (A) was stuck

Line (5) Burke has had the opportunity to chat and discover their reasons for visiting the remote city. Regulars at The Rusty Scupper greet Burke with smiles, handshakes, and gentle embraces. (10) After all, he is 107 years old and not the typical restaurant owner. (15) After more than 50 years at The Rusty Scupper, the western-style eatery he founded in 1958, Burke still delights at the world’s fascination with the American West and is continually overwhelmed by the distances people travel to experience a sliver of life as it was lived by American pioneers. Over	(20) the decades, Burke has overseen the growth of The Rusty Scupper from a modest business that served local patrons only, to a globally recognizable theme restaurant that attracts diners from all continents. (25) A review of the photographs mounted in the waiting area is enough to convince visitors that The Rusty Scupper is worth the trip. The hometown kitchen has served up meals for countless celebrities including John Wayne, Roy Rodgers, and Marilyn Monroe. Not surprisingly, Burke has become somewhat of a celebrity himself. Indeed, he is widely believed to be the oldest active restaurant owner in the world, not to mention one of the oldest living humans. (30) (35)

I have three young children who really enjoy sitting with me while I read children’s books aloud. Most of the books in our ever-growing collection are recent publications—texts that have been published in the last five to ten years. While my children are delightfully entertained by their pleasant stories and fanciful characters, personally, I find many of the stories to be boring, but harmless.

There is one category of children’s book, however, that does not seem so harmless to me. You have probably heard of “success stories.” The category that worries me would best be termed “failure stories.” There is a rash of children’s books being published now that assures children that failure is okay. Witness some of the story lines: Anita goes down in the first round of the spelling bee, to be greeted by warm embraces from her parents and teachers. Jack wants his team to win a soccer match; the team loses, but is treated to ice cream by glowing parents who applaud the team’s ability to work together (ineffectively!).

Strangely, when a character is allowed to actually win a contest or competition in one of these books, he must do so in a manner that so diminishes the accomplishment as to make it meaningless. Witness Nila: She is a young runner who tries to win a race. In the end, however, she is forced to settle for a “group-win” when all of the runners ridiculously cross the finish line at the same time after one of them stumbles, causing all of them to land in a heap.

11. The passage suggests that the writer believes that which of the following should be rewarded?
 - (A) participation
 - (B) achievement
 - (C) group hugs
 - (D) success stories
 - (E) delightful characters
12. The word “okay” in line 19 means
 - (A) acceptable
 - (B) delightful
 - (C) unharmed
 - (D) permitted
 - (E) encouraged
13. The writer’s insertion of the parenthetical in line 27 (ineffectively!) suggests that a loss indicates which of the following?
 - (A) The team will never win a match.
 - (B) The team needs a new coach.
 - (C) The team played together effectively.
 - (D) The players should try running instead.
 - (E) The players did not play well together.
14. Which of the following questions is answered in the passage?
 - (A) How many runners were involved in the group-win?
 - (B) How many children does the writer have?
 - (C) How many books does the writer own?
 - (D) Does the writer enjoy reading success stories to her children?
 - (E) Does the writer enjoy ice cream?
15. The writer’s attitude toward failure stories can best be describe as
 - (A) skeptical
 - (B) doubtful
 - (C) enthusiastic
 - (D) indifferent
 - (E) disapproving

The five-century-old map of the world that first included the name America was recently put on display at the Library of Congress. Although the map has already attracted thousands of curious visitors, most visitors are unaware of the questions that the map continues to pose for historians. How was the mapmaker able to draw South America so accurately? Why did he include a vast ocean west of America years before Europeans discovered the Pacific? These questions and more have remained unanswered for centuries.

The twelve separate sheets that make up the map are displayed in an airtight, aluminum and glass case that is filled with argon gas to prevent deterioration. Library officials are hopeful that their decision to publicly display the map will stimulate renewed interest among historians.

16. The best title for the passage is
- (A) The Library of Congress
 - (B) Curious Visitors
 - (C) An Historical Map
 - (D) Historians Who Study Maps
 - (E) America the Beautiful
17. Which of the following questions is answered by the passage?
- (A) Why is the case filled with argon gas?
 - (B) Where was the map discovered?
 - (C) Who was the mapmaker?
 - (D) When was the map discovered?
 - (E) How big is the map?
18. The passage suggests that
- (A) most map visitors are European
 - (B) most map visitors are not historians
 - (C) argon gas is lethal, if inhaled
 - (D) many Library officials are historians
 - (E) South American spans two of the map's twelve sheets
19. Library of Congress officials likely displayed the map in order to
- (A) increase ticket sales
 - (B) show off the airtight, glass case
 - (C) prevent its deterioration
 - (D) attract the interest of historians
 - (E) educate the public at large
20. The style of the passage is best described as
- (A) dramatic
 - (B) mysterious
 - (C) poetic

A small “adventure” cruise ship recently struck an iceberg in the frigid seas of the Antarctic. The collision compromised the structure of the vessel’s hull, forcing passengers to scramble onto life rafts as the ship began to take on water and slowly lean to one side. Given the remoteness of the location and the subfreezing South-Pole temperatures, the situation looked grim. Luckily for those on board, however, three much larger cruise ships were touring in nearby waters and responded quickly to the distress signal emitted by the sinking vessel.

In the end, each of the 154 passengers was rescued without injury. Details of the incident were widely reported, with many accounts characterizing the outcome as miraculous. Several environmental groups, however, cited the incident as evidence of the growing popularity of so-called “adventure” cruises. They argued that increased boat traffic, without proper regulation, would likely result in future accidents that threaten the delicate ecosystem of the Antarctic.

21. It can be inferred from the passage that icebergs in the Antarctic are
- (A) melting due to global warming
 - (B) not typically a threat to boats
 - (C) numerous in remote locations
 - (D) rare in remote locations
 - (E) sometimes difficult to detect
22. The word “grim” in line 8 means
- (A) haphazard
 - (B) concerning
 - (C) hopeless
 - (D) frigid
 - (E) shocking
23. It can be inferred from the passage that
- (A) the incident received significant media coverage
 - (B) environmental groups control certain media channels
 - (C) laws have recently been passed to regulate boat traffic in the Antarctic
 - (D) animal species in the Antarctic are rapidly becoming extinct
 - (E) adventure cruises that explore the Antarctic are expensive
24. According to the passage, what happens when a cruise ship begins to sink?
- (A) Its crew and passengers panic.
 - (B) It sends out a distress signal.
 - (C) It irreversibly harms the ecosystem.
 - (D) It harms the adventure cruise industry.
 - (E) It leads to contradicting media reports.
25. Which of the following questions is NOT answered by the passage?
- (A) How do cruise ship accidents threaten the ecosystem?
 - (B) Why are environmental groups concerned?
 - (C) Is the adventure cruise industry growing?
 - (D) How many passengers were rescued?
 - (E) Were any of the passengers hurt?
26. The main purpose of the passage is to
- (A) argue a position
 - (B) highlight an issue
 - (C) decide a conflict
 - (D) solve a growing problem
 - (E) criticize a philosophy

Every year, as winter approaches, fresh vegetables become more limited in much of the United States. This annual trend forces many Americans to turn to canned or frozen options during the cold winter months.

Line Frozen vegetables are more nutritional than
(5) canned vegetables, which tend to lose a lot of nutrients during the preservation process. In fact, frozen produce may be more healthful than not only canned produce, but also the “fresh” produce that is sold in supermarkets during the
(10) winter months. How can it be, you may wonder, that frozen vegetables contain more healthful nutrients than their fresh counterparts just a few aisles away? According to researchers, unlike vegetables destined to be sold in fresh-produce
(15) aisles, vegetables chosen for freezing tend to be picked and processed at their peak ripeness, a time when they are most nutrient-packed. Fresh vegetables, in contrast, are often picked well before they are fully ripe.

27. According to the passage, during the winter months in much of the United States, frozen vegetables are
- (A) less nutrient-packed than canned vegetables
 - (B) less nutrient-packed than fresh vegetables
 - (C) more nutrient-packed than fresh vegetables
 - (D) picked and processed before peak ripeness
 - (E) shipped long distances to supermarkets
28. The word “produce” in line 7 means
- (A) groceries
 - (B) vegetables
 - (C) fruit
 - (D) carrots
 - (E) goods
29. The “aisles” referred to in line 13 are likely located in
- (A) a mosque
 - (B) a parking lot
 - (C) a grocery store
 - (D) a warehouse
 - (E) a clothing store
30. It can be inferred from the passage that vegetables
- (A) become more nutrient rich as they ripen
 - (B) become less nutrient rich as they ripen
 - (C) are always picked when fully ripe
 - (D) are never picked when fully ripe
 - (E) are more expensive during winter months
31. The passage can best be described as
- (A) instructional
 - (B) spiritual
 - (C) comprehensive
 - (D) informative
 - (E) promotional

Friends and relatives consider me a patient person. I agree with them and regard myself as an individual who is especially calm and collected when confronted with annoying situations or prickly personalities. Things that annoy most other people simply roll off my skin the way water rolls off the feathers of a duck. Lately, however, I have not been my usual self. I'm easily rattled virtually every time I encounter an annoying situation. Just last week, for example, my friend Liz and I planned to meet at	noon for lunch. Knowing that Liz is often late for appointments, I took my time walking over to the café. As I meandered along, however, I suddenly became concerned that maybe, for once in her life, Liz would be punctual. I responded by quickening my pace and arriving on time. Liz, as you can imagine, was nowhere to be seen. When Liz finally arrived, I reacted more like an angry dog than an unruffled duck. My frustration was clear. "Oh Sarah, I'm always late," offered Liz. Annoying!
---	---

32. The passage suggests that water rolls off the feathers of a duck with
- (A) difficulty
 - (B) assistance
 - (C) annoyance
 - (D) effort
 - (E) ease
33. The word "meandered" in line 19 means
- (A) jogged
 - (B) hurried
 - (C) strolled
 - (D) limped
 - (E) skipped
34. It can be inferred from the passage that the "Sarah" referred to in line 29 is
- (A) Liz's sister
 - (B) a friend of the writer
 - (C) a relative of the writer
 - (D) the writer herself
 - (E) an employee of the café
35. According to the passage, the writer's friend Liz
- (A) got lost on her way to the café
 - (B) does not wear a watch
 - (C) was not hungry for lunch
 - (D) was late as usual
 - (E) offered to pay for lunch
36. The passage suggests that
- (A) the writer is usually punctual
 - (B) the writer is unemployed
 - (C) the writer knows a lot about ducks
 - (D) Liz often behaves like an angry dog
 - (E) Liz and the writer were classmates in school

As a young boy growing up in a small East Coast town, Peter often played with classmates and other neighborhood friends after school. They had fabulous times playing traditional games like stickball, basketball, football, and soccer. They also enjoyed their own “made-up” games that included cross the river, chase, and boys against the girls.

Aside from loosing track of time and arriving home late for dinner most evenings, Peter’s biggest problem, according to his mother, was that he habitually failed to change out of his school clothes before “roughing it up” with his friends. Week after week, Peter would come home with grass stained knees, torn sleeves, and muddied shoes.

One evening Peter’s mother had had enough. “From now on, Peter, you will change your clothes right after school,” she decreed. “Do you understand?!”

37. The passage suggests that Peter often lost track of time
- (A) doing homework
 - (B) making up games
 - (C) eating dinner
 - (D) playing with his friends
 - (E) napping after school
38. It can be inferred from the passage that Peter
- (A) played on many different teams
 - (B) won most of the games he played
 - (C) ate home-cooked meals most evenings
 - (D) lived in a small house with his mother
 - (E) did not view ruining clothes as his biggest problem
39. The word “decreed” in line 22 means
- (A) yelled
 - (B) ordered
 - (C) laughed
 - (D) stammered
 - (E) whispered
40. The writer’s attitude toward Peter can best be described as
- (A) disapproving
 - (B) indifferent
 - (C) critical
 - (D) supportive
 - (E) skeptical

2. If $N = -5$, then 2 more than twice N is equal to

- (A) -14
 - (B) -12
 - (C) -8
 - (D) -6
 - (E) 12

3. If the perimeter of the polygon shown in Figure 1 is 28, what is the value of $a + b + c$?

- (A) 12
- (B) 14
- (C) 16
- (D) 18
- (E) It cannot be determined based on the information provided.

Questions 12-14 refer to the following definition.

For all real numbers a and b , let

$a \leftrightarrow b = (a + b) \cdot (a - b)$. For example,

$$5 \leftrightarrow 2 = (5 + 2) \cdot (5 - 2) = (7) \cdot (3) = 21$$

12. $7 \leftrightarrow 4 =$

- (A) 11
- (B) 14
- (C) 28
- (D) 33
- (E) 47

13. If $N \leftrightarrow 2 = 12$, then $N =$

- (A) 6
- (B) 4
- (C) 3
- (D) 2
- (E) 0

14. If $a = b$, which of the following must be true

- I. $a \leftrightarrow b = b \leftrightarrow a$
 - II. $b \leftrightarrow a = 0$
 - III. $2a \leftrightarrow b = a \leftrightarrow 2b$
- (A) I only
 - (B) II only
 - (C) I and III only
 - (D) I and II only
 - (E) I, II, and III

15. If the average of 5 consecutive whole numbers is 11, what is the smallest number?
